MR. CHAS. B. NEWTON'S

Magnificent New Up-Town Hat Store._

Elegant Latest Styles and Where They Will Be Sold-Hats for Men of Fashion.

MR. CHARLES E. NEWTON, MR. CHARLES E. NEWTON, as to of the firm of Hennegen & Newton. Mr. ewton has just opened a first-class hat store in No. 145 Dearborn street, where he will carry complete new and elegant stock in all the adding apring and summer styles for 1898, in ress, silk, opera (crush), and derby hats, that annot be excelled as regards the excellence of atorial. superfority of workmanship, and legance of finish and design; and as the stock all new throughout, there are no old styles owork off on unsuspecting customers. As very one knows, the crowning glory of a man's tire is a new and fashionable hat. The coat asy be a trifle "off," the pants may not be all ney should be, and "virtue may flourish in an dictivate, but man and nature scorn the socking hat;" and so your correspondent nought as he watched the opening of this ew and elegant establishment, where can be wand—

Col. Oates' Romance.

There is a romance in the life of Col. William C. Cates, whom the administration Democrats of Alabama have nominated for Governor. A novelist concocting such an episode as the one in which the Colonel actually participated would, in all likelihood, be charged with going beyond the range of probabilities.

Mr. Oates entered the confederate army in 1861 as a Captain and came out as a Colonel. It is said that he got shot worse than anybody who lived. He was six times severely wounded, once in the right arm, then in the right leg, next in the left hip, then in the head, and finally, before Richmond, his right arm was taken off. Col. Oates' Romance.

When he lost his arm Col. Oates was taken to a farmhouse, where he was nursed by a Southern girl. After he was able to be about he felt that if he couldn't win the girl he wouldn't thank her for having saved his life. He made his confession, but she said
